

I am writing to express my dismay at plans by Sinclair Broadcasting to give a multi-million-dollar in-kind contribution to the Bush campaign in the form of a political propaganda piece aimed at presidential candidate John Kerry. This is the kind of manipulation of the public that the FCC needs to consider when it doles out larger and larger shares of media rights to fewer and fewer people. It doesn't matter what the view is - political speech should not be controlled by a few private entities!

Please consider sanctions against Sinclair Broadcasting for this gross violation of political fairness, and please restore some diversity in the mass media markets by preventing companies like Sinclair from dominating them.
